

Warrior Five Is Patched Up

Wakefield High School basketball coach Robbie Robinson is still desperately trying to patch up his sick-shot hoopers for Friday night's return bout with a visiting St. Stephen's team.

Except for the return of Ray Regan coach Robinson has little to be optimistic about.

Wakefield's sprite cagemen will be seeking revenge over a 43-41 licking the Saints slipped over on the Warriors ten days ago. At that time Wakefield had several squad members missing due to illness and the chances are that Friday they will have the same problem.

Still missing from the squad are Butch Varden, Steve Holderness, Doc Kugler and Tom Head.

Warren Watson, the lad who displayed a sparkling 24 point shooting spree in the first battle with St. Stephens while the rest of his team-mates were missing badly, will be back in the line-up trying to aggravate the Saints again.

Coach Robinson's boys will have their hands full stopping St. Stephen's Bob Koch if his game is the same as it was ten days ago. Koch knocked in 19 markers for the winners and will be out to repeat the performance.
